Bible Story

Joseph Interprets Dreams (Genesis 40:1–41:45)

Joseph clearly had a gift, evidenced by all of the dreams he interpreted in this story and throughout his life. But Joseph knew his gift was not his own creation—he often attributed this gift to God working through him. “Don’t interpretations belong to God?” (Genesis 40:8), he asks the cupbearer and baker in the Egyptian prison. And when Pharaoh asks Joseph for an interpretation, Joseph tells him, “It’s not me. God will give Pharaoh a favorable response” (41:16). We all have gifts, too. Joseph’s story tells us these gifts are given to us by God. Joseph’s story also shows us the best ways for us to use our gifts: to help others. Joseph interpreted Pharaoh’s dreams about a coming famine in the area and used this information to create a plan so the Egyptians could store grain for the people who would need food once the famine came. When we are faced with challenges in life, we can all share our gifts to help each other!
